KOMBATAN IS:

Kombatan is a Filipino martial art, which combines several classical and modern styles. The student learns several different approaches to different attacks. Drills, that improve the reflexes and reactions of students, are very important in training of Kombatan. Usually the first thing that is taught in martial arts, are techniques from a specific stance. On one hand, this helps learning but on the other hand, studying this way requires years of practice to be able to use these techniques in free fight. Unlike in many Asian martial arts, students of Kombatan learn first to use weapons and defend themselves against them.

” MY KOMBATAN ”

SENIOR MASTER VINCENT PERNICE

My Motto:

Admittedly borrowed:

“Don’t be disappointed by the results you didn’t get from the work you didn’t do.”

Effort and discipline are paramount when training; the “casual” students will never aspire in Kombatan or any other formidable art. One must never forget that ultimately we are training to fight. Certificates, titles, rank... they mean nothing if you can’t protect the ones you love.

My level in Kombatan:

Modern Arnis - Kombatan,
Rank of Senior Master under GM Shelley Millspaugh.
Kombatan Arnis,
Rank of Master - Lakan Lima under GGM E. Presas

My City/Country: Kansas, USA

When i started Kombatan?

I accompanied a friend to Tulsa, Oklahoma to see Dan Inosanto in 1996. I had never seen any of the arts from the Archipelago before that trip. While there, I met Steve Todd, who was kind enough to work with me at the seminar. I told him that I wished there was an FMA practitioner in Wichita, and he told me I was in luck and handed me Shelley Millspaugh’s card. I called Shelley the night I returned from the seminar... and the rest is history.

My favorite system from Kombatan?

I love all systems in Kombatan, but I’d have to say Dulo-Dulo is probably my favorite. It is such a simple and unassuming weapon, but absolutely lethal when deployed properly. I have taught Dulo-Dulo specific seminars for women, so that they are able to find security in carrying an everyday item such as a heavy pen. For me personally, the Dulo-Dulo unlocked secrets to other weapons, such as the kerambit.

Best Kombatan memories:

I have more great memories than I could count, but I’d have to say having Great Grandmaster Presas in my home spending time with my family were the best. He was such a wonderful soul; genuinely fun to be around and so very good with children. He sat and watched Mary Poppins with my daughter, singing the songs with her. I am absolutely blessed to have met and spent quality time with this great man
